Celebrity host, Linda Black, a self-confessed big fan of the arts, was impressed with the quality of the session and expressed her delight on having a chance to understand how a child sees the world.

"It has been a very fruitful experience and I like the fact that it's all about unleashing the creativity of the child because I think that is the essence of true education," commented Celebrity and Model, Nura J-Esman, who brought along her daughter for the hands-on session.

Head on down to WowART Studio now for your trial lessons at 200 Upper Thomson Road, #01-10 Thomson Imperial Court (Opposite Longhouse).
